THOUSANDS WILL BE MADE HOMELESS

WHEN POYDRAS DIKE IS CUT FRIDAY TO SAVE NEW ORLEANS

The Delta Country In Which Some of the Fairest Homes of the Southland Is Located Will Be Made An Inland Sea—It Is Hoped That With the Cutting of This Levee That the Level of Lake Ponchartrain Will Be Lowered.

Colonel Joe Harris, directing work on the Arkansas river levee at South Bend, notified relief workers at Pine Bluff Arkansas at 9:40 Wednesday night that boats had been moved back 600 yards and the South Bend levee was likely to break any minute. A boil was discovered Wednesday night and warnings were issued for people in the area likely to be flooded to evacuate. The break would inundate a large portion of southeast Arkansas.

From the lowlands of southeastern Louisiana to the highlands of central Arkansas and Tennessee new caravans Wednesday poined the armies of refugees on the march in the face of floods or threats of floods.

Hundreds moved out of St. Bernard and Plaquemine parishes carrying household and other possessions and abandoned homes and farms to be deliberately flooded in an effort to save New Orleans from the wall of water bearing down on it from the upper Mississippi valley.

Grim forces of nature were compelling elements in the movements of those in northern Louisiana, the Mississippi delta and southeastern Arkansas. Many had time to save some possessions; others trudged along empty handed, thankful to escape with their lives.

Army engineers still were doubtful whether the sacrifices to be made by the people of southeastern Louisiana, with the breaking of the levee at Poydras at noon Friday and the loosening of vast volume of flood waters would save the Crescent City.

As flood waters continued to inundate additional towns and farms in southern Arkansas and the Mississippi delta, Red Cross agencies were bending every energy to relieve situations there described in official reports as desperate.

Rising waters from the Arkansas reached more towns and villages Wednesday and increased the flood depths at Arkansas City and other places where large numbers of refugees were gathered. Hundreds who had sought safety in McAbee abandoned that now inundated town and marched to Monticello, where more than 5000 homeless already were being cared for.

Across the Mississippi in the delta section the flood waters pouring thru Stops Landing break above Greenville were gradually pushing out the huge lake in the lower Yazoo valley, flooding half a dozen more towns, making a total of more than a score now partially under water.

The refugee situation in this section presented a most pressing problem. Reports to the Red Cross said at Leland, where there were 6,000 people, help was needed as the town was overrun. Preparations were made to transfer several thousands to the concentration camps at Cleveland.

Reports at Memphis, Tennessee, showed 28,500 refugees concentrated in six towns in the delta, with 8000 at Greenville, 7000 at Cleveland, 6000 at Leland, 2000 at Lobdell, 2500 at Deson and 3000 at Beulah.

Hoping that relief to the city of New Orleans, from the tremendous pressure of the water yet to come down the Mississippi river was assured, New Orleans Wednesday was witnessing the spectacular removal of the citizens of two parishes from homes which have been doomed, that the largest and proudest city of the south might be saved.

Meanwhile every precaution was being taken to prevent any unforeseen action being taken along the levee line stretching thru the New Orleans and up the river.

National guardsmen and police patrolled many miles of levees thruout the day, not only the prevents dynamiting but to sound the alarm should any weakness develop in the levee system.

New Orleans police directed traffic, national guardsmen patrolled the grass-covered levees and warned citizens to evacuate the area and behind all loomed the shadows of a submarine chaser. An airplane hovered overhead, assigned to river patrol duty, and further in the distance a flotilla of four more submarine chasers stood at anchor.

W. W. GLASSCOCK DEAD.

William W. Glasscock, a former resident of Scioto township, died in the Odd Fellows home at Springfield Tuesday, of uraemia. He was 71 7/8 years of age. The deceased is survived by two sisters.

The funeral services were held at the United Brethren church in Harbursburg Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Pleasant township cemetery.

Shoshones 'Bury' Beds of Dead Warriors

Fort Washakie, Wyo.—Modern customs and ancient beliefs have clashed with weird results in the Wind River burial ground near here.

The old idea that the Shoshone Indian should have his personal effects buried with him was workable in the days when he slept on a buffalo robe, but these modern beds present a problem which is generally solved by leaving the bed above ground.

The burial place was established 43 years ago by Rev. John Roberts adjoining his log mission, which still stands. At that time the funeral ceremony consisted of placing the body of the deceased on the back of a pony which was led, followed by a cortege, up long trails to a mountain top. There burial was made in the crevices of a rocky point.

A Shoshone legend says the tribe is descended from a big coyote.

Crookedest Road in the United States

This is known as the crookedest highway in the United States, there being 56 curves or turns to make in a distance of two and one-half miles. The photograph only shows the turns possible to photograph. It goes up a hill 1,200 feet from Mary Hill, Wash., to Goldendale. Some people, especially women, get seasick riding on this road.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires
By Correspondents of the
United States Press
Association.

Conneaut — Bear hunting was in prospect here Thursday as county authorities searched for a big bear which escaped from its owner, Mrs. Gus Pappas, former vaudeville performer. The animal, weighing more than 400 pounds, made a break for Lake Erie, and after swimming off shore returned to the land.

Canton—Ora Slater, investigator of the Don R. Mellett murder will return here Monday to resume his work in connection with the case.

Slater will complete gathering evidence to be presented against Floyd E. Streitenberfer, ousted city detective who goes on trial here May 9 on a first degree murder indictment growing out of the Mellett assassination.

Dayton —Delegates numbering 400 from the entire state were in attendance at a Kiwanis club meeting addressed by Ralph Ammerman, Scranton, Pennsylvania, president of the Kiwanis international. Edward F. Arras, Columbus, past president of the international was present and four past governors; W. G. Hyde, Chillicothe; Robert F. Frey, Ottawa; Warner F. Jackson, Lima and Alfred Miller, Toledo.

Middletown —Myrtle Sherwood, 47 was arrested by state officers and charged with violating the narcotic laws. It is said she forged the name of Dr. T. A. Dickey to a prescription to secure morphine.

Youngstown —Nick Kuffel saved a five year old girl from possible death Wednesday night when he pushed the child out of the path of a street car, but was struck himself. He suffered scalp lacerations and contusions of the chest. The name of the child is unknown.

Zanesville —M. C. Carter, 24 of Wheeling, West Virginia, was in a hospital here today suffering from a bullet wound received in a "bandit trap."

Early Colonial Domain

The expression "Old Colony" originally applied to that part of Massachusetts included in the limits of the Plymouth colony, but afterwards was used to designate the entire state. In 1692 the Plymouth and Massachusetts bay colonies, which for many years had been independent of each other, were united in one province, bearing the name Massachusetts.—Kansas City Star.

'Get Thee Gone,' Divorce Decree in Turkestan

Tashkent, U. S. S. R.—Turkestan is one of the few remaining Moslem countries where the system of temporary marriages prevails.

As in the new Turkey, a man may divorce his wife by saying in substance: "Get thee gone!" He is then free to try matrimony with another. But the woman, under Islamic law, cannot remarry until 100 days have elapsed after her divorce. If she does so, she is cast out from Mohammedan society as a sinner.

Among the natives of Turkestan the penalty for infidelity in a wife is both severe and humiliating. To show her guilt, her face is blackened and she is placed on a donkey, with her face toward its tail, and led through the bazars of the town.

WILLIAM T. CARNES DEAD

William T. Carnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Carnes, was born October 15, 1892, in Circleville and died Saturday afternoon, April 23, in Little Rock, Arkansas. The body arrived in Chillicothe this morning, and was taken to the home of his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Diggins, 814 Madison avenue.

He is survived by his father, John G. Carnes, a wife and four children, three sons and one daughter. He was married to Maud Burris, March 21, 1914. The deceased is a former employe of the B. & O. railroad in Chillicothe, for which company he worked for several years.

The services will be held at the home Friday at 2 p. m. Rev. Thompson officiating with burial at Graenlawn.—Scioto Gazette.

Soviet to Preserve Chapel of Virgin

Moscow. — Cathedrals, churches, mosques and synagogues of definite historical or architectural interest are to be preserved intact by the Soviet government.

This was indicated by the commissariat of education in refusing the petition of a Moscow borough government seeking the demolition of the famous chapel of the Iberian Virgin, which the devout consider the most sacred spot in Russia. The borough claimed it impeded traffic.

"This precious sixteenth century structure," said the commissariat, "has every claim to be preserved with the rest of Russia's monuments, because it represents a definite historical, artistic period in the life of the country."

Standing at the entrance to Red Square, the diminutive edifice was made famous by its ikon of the Iberian Virgin, reputed to have miraculous powers, and by the fact that all czars during the last 300 years invariably went there for inspiration and blessing before ascending the throne.

SECRETARY OHIO GRAIN DEALERS DEAD

Joseph W. McCord Dies of Heart Trouble at His Home in Columbus Wednesday.

Joseph W. McCord, 76, of the firm of McCord & Kelley, 80 North High street, Columbus, wholesale grain dealers, and honorary secretary of the Ohio Grain Dealers' association, died at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday at his home, 24 South Monroe avenue. He had been ill since Christmas with heart disease.

He was a resident of Columbus since 1876, coming there from Bainbridge, where he was born September 11, 1850. His ancestors were Scotch-Irish, and were identified with the settlers of Marietta.

He also was a charter member of the Ohio Grain Dealers' association, which was organized at Put-in-Bay, in 1880, and a former president of the association. In 1888 he was elected secretary, which office he held until last June, when he was chosen honorary secretary for life and was presented with a silver cup in appreciation of his services.

Mr. McCord organized the Ohio Grain Dealers' Mutual Fire association, which was incorporated August 6, 1901, and since then he had been its secretary.

Until a year ago he was president of the Grain Dealers' National Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Indianapolis.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday at the residence, Rev. Ralph E. Davis, of Broad street M. E. church will officiate. Burial in Green Lawn cemetery.

The deceased was well known to grain dealers in this city. He was frequently a guest of Col. C. E. Groce, and family.

TRACTION CAR SPILLS CREAM AT DUVALLS

Clyde Leist Driver of Pickaway Dairy Truck Hit at Crossing Thursday.

At 8 o'clock Thursday morning a Chevrolet truck that gathers cream for the Pickaway County Cooperative Cream association owned by Charles Radcliffe and driven by Clyde Leist was struck by a south-bound freight car of the Scioto Valley Traction company, at Duvals.

The truck was almost completely demolished and Mr. Leist was badly cut about the face altho still able to continue his route on another truck.

With the completion of the C. & H. railroad Duvals will have three grade crossings all within a very few rods of space.

French Revive Theory That Names Rule Lives

Paris.—Compelling children to grow up "good" by giving them the right sort of names is an old theory given fresh attention. A lawsuit wherein judgment was obtained against an attorney who neglected to prosecute a suit for plagiarism against a rival, brought out these "good" names:

Albert, Alphonse, Pierre, Gustave, Charles, Paul, Henri and Louis, among many others, for boys. Girls preferably should be christened Jeanne, Agathe, Marie, Berthe, Claire, Anne or Therese.

The names banned are Medard, Joseph, Fernand, Bennolt, Sidonie, Suzanne, Zoe and Helene.

Efficient Poisons for Garden Insects

Dusting Has Been Found to Be Practical.

Among the important tasks in caring for the garden is spraying. Complicated and bulky contrivances are not always necessary. Dusting has been found to be practical and a very convenient way of getting rid of cucumber beetles, potato bugs or worms.

The Ohio experiment station was the first institution to make known the fact that a combination of one pound of calcium arsenate and twenty pounds of gypsum not only controlled the cucumber beetle but also made possible increased yield of cucumbers.

The farmers first used sacks for applying the dust and later improved on this method. Buckets with holes punctured through the bottoms over which loose boards are placed so that when the pails are given a slight rotating jerk the dust works its way through the perforations and drops on the plants are often used.

Some farmers have used combinations of calcium arsenate and nicotine sulphate with gypsum. By this means increased efficiency is secured and aphids as well as leaf-eating insects are controlled.

Agricultural gypsum serves as an excellent carrier of various other insect poisons. Combinations with paris green and nicotine sulphate are frequently used with telling effect, and in some cases agricultural gypsum is used alone as a repellent of worms, leaf eaters and plant lice.

Close Scrutiny Needed to Detect Cattle Mange

Acting on statements from the leather trade, which reports serious losses in hides owing to demodectic mange, the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, has requested its inspectors throughout the country to be on the alert in detecting this ailment.

Demodectic or follicular mange, as the same trouble is sometimes called, affects principally cattle, hogs and goats, though sheep and horses are sometimes attacked by the mange mites. One tanner reported that from 4 to 35 per cent of hides from yearling cattle showed visible injury from mange.

Since the external lesions in live animals are often small, obscure, and covered by hair, the symptoms and direct economic losses are not pronounced. This may explain why farmers and even veterinarians may not have become adept in detecting the lesions and recognizing their true nature.

As a means of determining the extent and distribution of this live stock ailment, the bureau of animal industry has instructed its inspectors stationed at public stockyards to furnish monthly reports showing the number and species of animals examined and the degree of infection found. Other persons interested may obtain from the department, on request, directions for detecting demodectic mange in live stock and for obtaining and mailing samples of mites, eggs, and secretions for laboratory examination. The studies are being conducted by the zoological division, bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Protect Trees Against Depredations of Mice

Field mice may seriously damage fruit trees if other food materials become scarce. They girdle the trunks and sometimes the larger roots where they are close to the surface of the ground. Old trees as well as young trees frequently fall victim of their depredations.

One plan used by orchardists to prevent mouse damage is to rake grass and other rubbish away from the tree trunk for a radius of three feet. After this, the ground in this circle is tamped to make it difficult for the mice to burrow close to the trunk.

Sometimes repellent washes are found to be effective. Concentrated lime-sulphur painted on the trunks is used for this purpose. It has been found that a pound of glue dissolved in a gallon of lime-sulphur makes the material stick better and lengthens the repelling effect. The most satisfactory way of dealing with mice is to poison them. Then they are sure to stop depredations.

Purdue Dairymen Offer Feed Guide for Bulls

With his head in a rigid stanchion 365 days in a year, a bull has a splendid chance to think over the mean treatment his owner gives him. Very often he gets the left-over or waste feed. Such rations soon ruin any bull.

Dairymen at Purdue university offer as a feeding guide for bulls in service, the suggestion that they be kept in a vigorous, healthy condition free from excess fat and paunchiness. A good grain mixture consists of 3 parts ground corn, 3 parts ground oats, 2 parts wheat bran and 1 part linseed oil meal. Ground oats are especially good, but cottonseed meal is suspected of causing impotency.

Legume hays at the rate of 10 to 20 pounds a day are recommended. When they are not available, it is necessary to feed more linseed oilmeal. Silage fed in large amounts has a tendency to cause paunchiness, but 10 to 15 pounds daily may be used with other rations. Water at least twice daily and provide some exercise.

Speed of Birds

The difficulties of timing birds in their wild state make it impossible to give exact information on their speed. The United States biological survey says that the greatest speed attained by birds is attained by the indian swift, which is known to have traveled as fast as 200 miles an hour. PETER'S DENIAL AND REPENTANCE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:53, 54; 66-71; Luke 22:61, 62.

GOLDEN TEXT—Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Grieves Jesus and Is Sorry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of Peter's Disloyalty.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Is Denied Today.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Danger of Sudden Temptations.

I. Peter's Downfall (Mark 14:29-71).

This began when he refused to hear about the cross and ended when he, with a foul oath, declared: "I know not the man." When the disciples would no longer hear Christ's message about the cross, they not only ceased to grow in knowledge, but they began to deteriorate in moral discernment and were exposed to the possibility of the shameful denial of their Lord. Steps in Peter's backsliding:

1. Overweening self-confidence (vv. 29-31).

His unwillingness to face the cross alienated him from Jesus and when apprized of the fact that the disciples would all forsake Jesus, Peter declared that Jesus was certainly mistaken, saying: "Although all shall be offended, yet will not I." Our condition is most perilous when we are most sure of our safety.

2. Sleeping at the post of duty (v. 37).

In one short hour the very one who was so confident of his self-sufficiency had fallen asleep instead of watching. The only way to escape from backsliding is to watch.

3. Lack of prayer (v. 38).

The legitimate inference from the Lord's words "watch and pray" is that He had commanded them to pray as well as to watch. The reason there is so little prayer is due to the lack of the sense of need of God's help.

4. Misguided zeal (v. 47).

Peter drew a sword and cut off an ear of a servant of the high priest (John 18:10) when they came to arrest Jesus. He was thus zealous for the Lord. He was trying to make up in outward service his conscious lack of communion.

5. Followed Jesus afar off (v. 54).

Christ's rebuke for taking the sword and the awkward position in which his act had placed him, caused him to follow afar off. He keenly felt Christ's reprimand. Following Jesus afar off got him into trouble.

6. Warned himself at the enemy's fire (v. 67).

This fire was built by those who had come unsympathetically to witness the crucifixion and even to mock in this tragic hour. For Christ's disciples to try to get comfort from the things prepared for the satisfaction of His enemies is sinful. Many professing Christians are living a life of compromise, even attempting to get pleasures out of the things which the enemies of Christ have prepared for themselves.

7. Open denial (vv. 66-71).

Step by step downward Peter went until the words of a servant girl provoked open and blasphemous denial. This even by one who had said: "If I should die with thee I will not deny thee in any wise." Peter's trouble began when he shrank from the cross. It was that shunning which separated him from contact with God. It should be remembered that there can be no backsliding until there be established a position from which to slip. Many of the so-called backsliders have never been born again.

II. The Repentance of Peter (Luke 22:61-62).

1. The look of Jesus (v. 61).

This was a most wondrous look. It was doubtless filled with pity and pain. Christ knew the trials through which Peter and the other disciples would pass and He prayed for them. This look brought to Peter the full consciousness of his cowardice and disloyalty and his blasphemous words of denial, and yet it displayed His pity and forgiving love.

2. Peter's bitter tears (v. 62).

The look of Jesus brought conviction of sin. It called to mind his boastfulness and cowardice. How awful must have been his condition as he went out that night into the darkness, little suspecting that there would be found a way to get back into communion with his Lord. Doubtless the message from the women as they came from the tomb brought the first good cheer to his heart. Christ said to them: "Go and tell my disciples and Peter." This encouraged him, no doubt, as it indicated Christ's particular consideration and love for him.

Rewards of Friendship

This communicating of a man's self to his friends works two contrary effects, for it redoubleth joys and cutteth grief in halves; for there is no man that imparteth his joys to his friend, but he enjoyeth the more; and no man that imparteth his griefs to his friend, but he grieveth the less.—Bacon.

Cold Causes Given

Causes for colds, attributed to hundreds of different atmospheric and physical disturbances, are chiefly over-fatigue and stale air, according to a bulletin issued by the United States public health service. The majority of colds are "caught" during the months when little outdoor exercise is taken.

"ANTEX" WINDOW SHADES Are Low in Price

But See the Quality for Yourself

You'll probably read advertisements that strongly urged you to buy the product advertised. This advertisement simply tells you what you can get in a window shade for 75 cents in 36 inch width (wider shades in proportion) during the introductory sale---or while our supply lasts. Judge the value for yourself!

If you have never seen "Antex" window shades, there's a surprise in store for you at our special "Antex" introductory sale.

"Antex" shades are the newest window shades on the market. They cannot crack or develop pinholes! The surface is non-porous and does not soil readily.

"Antex" shades have a beautiful crepe finish; they are made like felt, of long, strong fiber; they have no oil, paint, starch, clay or other coating to crack; the colors are commercially fast.

They can be boiled in hot water, or soaked in hot or cold water, and after drying, will stand every test just as though they had never been wet. If wrinkled, no holes appear, and a hot iron and damp cloth will remove the wrinkles; two strong men can play tug-of-war with them; they can be cleaned with a dry rubber sponge, with art gum, or with ordinary paper cleaner.

Try any test yourself. Satisfy yourself---but do so before our limited supply is gone.

BY 3 GENERATIONSFarm Operated by One
Family for 57 Years.Chardon, Ohio.—Three generations
have operated one of the largest maple "sugar bushes" in Ohio, which
this season is yielding the largest output in its history.On November 20, 1869, Isaac Hosford and his son bought 191 acres of land, then a part of the Connecticut
land grant. The farm is just outside of Chardon, on the Chardon-Painesville road. For 57 consecutive years the farm and its maple grove
have been operated by Isaac Hosford
and his descendants. It passed from father to son. Lynn H. Hosford,
World war veteran, is the present
owner.It has seen all phases of sugar-making methods from the primitive to the modern. In 1870, Hosford set 800
wooden buckets and troughs on the ground beneath the maple trees to catch the sap. A gouge was used for tapping. A long hand-made wooden spout was inserted and from this the sap dropped into the buckets and troughs.In the Long Ago.The sap was gathered with the aid
of an ox team hitched to a boat sled
on which wooden saddles were arranged to hold two barrels of from thirty to forty gallons each. The saddles prevented the barrels from rolling off.The sap was poured into two iron kettles holding from forty to sixty
gallons each and bricked in an arch.
When the sap had been boiled down
to sirup the kettles were lifted off the arch and away from the fire by means of a pole rested in another pole with a crotch, the end of which was fastened to the kettle by means of a heavy log chain.The next method for boiling sap
had as its essential a pan with a flue
heater. The pan had partitions enabling the operator to keep the sap separate from the sirup by means of gate slides. When the sap became sirup it was drawn off through a faucet directly over the fire.This plan was replaced in 1886 with an evaporator invented by Henry Hill, a boyhood chum of Harris Hosford.

To house this new evaporator a large sugar house was built to centralize the gathering of the sap, as Hosford's "sugar bush" now contained 1,000 trees.Modern Methods Come.About this time wooden buckets were replaced by new galvanized buckets. The method of tapping also was changed. A three-eighths inch bit and a patented metal spile with a shoulder for attaching the bucket

were used.In 1900 a young grove of 1,200 trees
had reached production and a large and improved evaporator was placed
behind the one purchased fourteen years before. The trees continued to increase until their number required
3,500 buckets. These 3,500 buckets
yielded 1,000 gallons of sirup in 1919
and again in 1923.The Hosford "sugar bush" is considered one of the largest in Geauga
county, which is noted for its maple
sirup and maple sugar industry. It contains 1,700 trees and its yearly sirup output ranges from 400 to 600
gallons. Greater yields are exceptions.Growing Starch Plant*New Hawaiian IndustryHonolulu, T. H.—Pineapples and sugar are the two principal industries
of Hawaii, but a third is rapidly being established to make use of lands too
wet for pineapples and too high for cane. This is a starch, to be made from the edible canna.For fifty years Australia has furnished the market with arrowroot,
which is starch from the root stock
of this plant. The familiar canna of our gardens has tubers rich in starch,
but the edible species has a very much larger spread of underground stems
filled with starch that is easily separated from the fiber for market use.Hawaii has used the plant extensively for stock feeding and there seems no reason why it should not be very profitable for commercial use
when established.George V Quits Custom*of Taking Wine OutLondon.—King George has shattered

plots made the throne rather a risky
job.The practice of monarchs drinking
liquors only from the royal cellars
goes back even farther than the time of Henry V, when rulers feared being poisoned.The king and Queen Mary have been guests of friends on numerous occasions recently. Among the hosts were Lord and Lady Astor and the duchess of Roxburgh, formerly Miss May Goe-
let of New York.So Have WeWheeling, Va.—Marvin Malone,

Chimpanzees Slow to Pick Up Human Speech

A chimpanzee might be taught to talk with its fingers, as deaf people talk, more easily than it could be taught to imitate sounds of human speech, in the opinion of Dr. Robert M. Yerkes and Margaret S. Child of the Institute of Psychology at Yale university. Several scientists who observed and studied higher apes have tried to teach them to say words, but without much success, these psychologists state in reporting in the Quarterly Review of Biology what is now known about anthropoid behavior. "Perhaps the chief reason for the ape's failure to develop speech is the absence of a tendency to imitate sounds," Doctor Yerkes explains. "Seeing strongly stimulates to imitation, but hearing seems to have no such effect." He believes that the sounds made by apes are not language, but are primarily emotional expressions, which are not learned by imitation.

WATER SUPPLY DISCUSSED AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

City Solicitor Weldon Tells of Conferences With Boards of Health, Columbus Officials And the Water Company—Meeting Was Well Attended And All Are Hopeful That Circleville May Have Pure Water Supply—Committee Appointed By President Jeffries.

The regular meeting of the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening, with President Thomas F. Jeffries presiding, was addressed by C. A. Weldon, city solicitor, relative to the pollution of the Scioto river by the sewage from the city of Columbus.

Last summer this matter was before the chamber of commerce and complaint was made by that body to the state board of health. Complaint was made at the same time to the Franklin county board of health and a meeting was called by that body to which the city officials of this city were invited and the chamber of commerce and quite a number of the doctors. A representative of the city of Columbus was present, also a representative of the state board of health.

Nothing came of that meeting, as about that time copious rains set in and the stench arising from the Scioto river on account of the pollution by the sewage from Columbus, subsided because the river was flushed out by the excessive rainfalls that continued all summer.

The city solicitor referred to this meeting and the information that was obtained was to the effect that the sewage disposal plant in Columbus is capable of handling 27,000,000 gallons daily and that the sewage from the city exceeds 35,000,000, and all the excess is turned directly into the river. He also called attention to the Briggs and O'Shaunessey dams which have been constructed in the Scioto river near Dublin at a cost to Columbus of $2,700,000, and the great amount of water that is impounded by them, being between seven and eight billion gallons, affording a water supply that will last Columbus 250 days.

The effect of impounding the water thus is to completely dry up Scioto river between the Briggs dam and the place where the Olentangy empties into the Scioto, thus wholly diverting the waters from this natural watercourse to the injury of the riparian owners below. Besides the damage brought about by thus diverting the waters, the greater part of the sewage from Columbus is discharged into the Scioto, having the appearance of ink, polluting the water, killing the fish and giving rise to a stench that is disagreeable and nauseating, and thus creating a public nuisance.

Mr. Weldon called attention to the provision of the statutes, providing a penalty for polluting a stream that is a natural watercourse, and the remedies at hand for abating the same. He referred to the case of the City of Mansfield against Balliett, decided by the supreme court, which held that a municipality has no right to discharge its sewage into a natural watercourse without first acquiring from the lower riparian owners the right to do so and compensating them for the damages sustained.

He also referred to the almost supreme powers given to the state board of health, whereby, upon the complaint that a city is discharging its sewage into a watercourse, thus polluting it and creating a nuisance, and after a hearing and finding that such is the fact, the board may order the municipality to install a sewage plant, and failure to comply with its orders subjects the officials to a fine. This law has been held constitutional in the case of the City of Cleveland against the State Board of Health.

At the present time the city of Columbus has a sanitary engineer employed, preparing plans and specifications for a sewage disposal plant for the city and the state board of health has indicated that it will make an order requiring Columbus to install the plant. This will take some time. The chamber of commerce was also told that a sewage disposal plant has been installed at the farm at Orient and is in complete working order and the sewage from that point is no longer a menace to our water supply.

Mr. Weldon said that Mr. Waring, representing the state board of health, and Mr. Hoover, chemist in charge of the water purification plant at Columbus, had been here Tuesday, had made an examination of the water plant and found everything satisfactory, that the water works had complied with the orders of the state board of health and installed a chlorine device for treating the water supply. Eight samples of the water were taken Tuesday for analysis and a report on the same is expected by Thursday.

At the conclusion of Mr. Weldon's talk, a general discussion followed. Dr. Howard Jones stated that the state board of health and the city of Columbus had promised annually for years to cease polluting the Scioto river and that the promises were just as repeatedly broken, and that we are no further advanced than we were some years ago in this respect, all the time the Scioto river becoming more polluted by the sewage from the city of Columbus.

A resolution was proposed by R. L. Brehmer, seconded by T. O. Gilliland and passed by the chamber of commerce directing that a committee be appointed to cooperate with the city solicitor, the prosecuting attorney, the county commissioners and the various county boards, together with the city of Circleville board of health, to take action to compel the city of Columbus to discontinue discharging sewage into the Scioto river, to cease polluting that stream on account of the public nuisance it has created. This resolution was enthusiastically adopted and President Jeffries announced that he would appoint the committee within the next few days, after which the meeting adjourned.

"Dawn Man's" Relation to the Present Race

The six million-year-old "dawn man," heralded recently by some scientists as "man's first ancestor," cannot rightfully be called such, according to Prof. Kirtley F. Mather, Harvard, geologist.

"Man is an evolved being and so is the monkey," said Doctor Mather. "At some place way back in the dim past, their genealogical trails crossed. The 'dawn man' is a separate offshoot from the common tree, neither man or monkey but related to both."

"The 'dawn man' lived 6,000,000 years ago. The ancestors of man were in existence long before that. True we have no skeletons as yet of older date, but there is evidence of evolution in what we have found. Hence, we logically assume that there was evolution prior to the 'dawn man.'"

AMUSEMENTS

It's here at last—the real "inside story" of Broadway night life! Gilda Gray's new Paramount picture, "Cabaret" which arrived at the Met theater yesterday is IT! "Cabaret" towers above everything of the sort which has preceded it. If authenticity is sought,—if you want to know exactly what the clubs look like, who the entertainers are, what dances are being danced or what clothes are being worn,—"Cabaret" should be seen. And if there is one woman in America who known in night clubs, Gilda Gray is she. Her life story is too well known to need recounting here, but it should be noted that Gilda first won applause as a cabaret entertainer. Because of this, "Cabaret" is real!

Gloria Trask found fame awaiting her in the Club Costigan and she also found love. Detective Tom Westcott was more than ordinarily interested in her and so was Sam Roberts. While the latter was more affluent Gloria disliked him because of the grip he exerted on her brother, Andy. One night she determined to find out exactly what kind of an axe he held over the boy's head. But—Andy entered and threw Roberts to the floor.

He fired a gun, Andy did the same and the gang leader was dead! The shots weren't heard because of a jazz band in the next room. Gloria danced her wounded brother thru the crowded dance floor and out—but why go further?

"Cabaret" was written by a master melodramatist, Owen Davis. Chester Conklin is cofeatured with Tom Moore. Robert G. Vignola directed.

Oakland Finds June Bad Month for Cats

Oakland, Calif. — Down-and-outers of the feline world in California offer themselves to the world of hard knocks—and no food—in greater numbers during June than in any other month in the year, if figures compiled by the Animal Shelter league here are any indication. Cats receiving care that month totaled 488.

Since the inception of the organization in August, 1925, no less than 2,883 cats have obtained shelter at the organization. Homes were found for some of these—others are listed under the suggestive caption: Cats Dispatcher. These numbered 2,778.

How Do You Choose Shoes?

Do you select shoes which will be smart and becoming and entirely suited to your needs?—or simply because they happen to be the newest fad?

In a season when so many styles are brought forth, it is very wise to choose your shoes for definite purposes, or to wear with certain costumes. For, after all, being "well dressed" depends upon your own attractiveness. And clothes, or shoes chosen in that way, will always give greater pleasure.

Cannibal Butterflies

Butterflies that eat plant lice and mealy bugs during the larval stage, instead of the usual vegetarian diet, have been discovered in the Orient and New England. Known as hair-streaks, they even carry their cannibal habits to the point of devouring their own species during the helpless state of transition from larva into the pupa.

EIGHTY-FIRSTAnnual Meeting of Ohio State Medical Association To Be Held In Columbus May 10-12.

Columbus, April 27.—Physicians and surgeons from all parts of Ohio and from neighboring states will gather in Columbus, May 10, 11 and 12, for the eighty-first annual meeting of the Ohio State Medical Association which is to be held for the first time in the last half-century at the Neil House—the place where the Association was founded in May, 1846.

Over one hundred Ohio physicians and eight out-of-state physicians are to take part in the scientific assembly, where the latest advances in scientific medicine for the cure of disease, alleviation of suffering and protection of public health are to be discussed. This assembly is divided into six general sections—Medicine; surgery; eye, ear, nose and throat; obstetrics and pediatrics; nervous and mental diseases; and public health and industrial medicine.

In addition to the scientific program, there will be business meetings of the House of Delegates, the general sessions, election of officers, seventh annual golf tournament, clinics, fraternity and college reunions and numerous other social activities.

Dr. L. G. Bowers, Dayton, retires as president of the Association at this meeting. Dr. L. L. Bigelow, Columbus, president-elect, succeeds Dr. Bowers. Dr. Bigelow's successor will be elected at the meeting.

Pickaway county will be well represented at the Columbus meeting.

Dr. F. E. Ginder, of Darbyville, is president of the Pickaway County Medical Society and Dr. Lloyd Jones, of Circleville, is secretary.

NORDI ADMITSHE SHOT SOLDIER

Columbus April 27.—Cecil Nordi, 31, proprietor of a restaurant at 873 north Nineteenth street, confessed late Tuesday that he had fired the shot which killed Private Joseph Karpinsky, 33, quartermaster corps, Fort Hayes, during a disturbance at his restaurant Monday night. He is being held on a first degree murder charge.

His confession to Police Prosecutor Hensel followed a conference with his attorney, John F. Siedel. He claims self-defense. The confession corroborated the story told by Mrs. Mildred Horn, 27, employee of the restaurant.

Mrs. Horn had at first said she shot Karpinsky, but changed her story Tuesday. She will be held by police as a material witness as will her sister-in-law, Mrs. Goldie Horn, 33, both living in rooms above the restaurant.

Nordi said that Karpinsky came in the restaurant, started a disturbance and threw a glass tray at him, which hit the back-bar and shattered. He then started behind the counter. Nordi says he warned him not to come behind the counter and pulled a revolver from a drawer. He shot when Karpinsky refused to heed his warning, Nordi said.

Mrs. Goldie Horn heard the noise of the smashed tray and the shot, and was the first to enter the restaurant after the tragedy.

URGES PROOFOF TOLERATION

Election of Catholic Is Favored
 By Nellie Ross.

Washington, April 27.—(UP.)—Denouncing intolerance as the greatest sin of the age, former Governor Nellie Taylor Ross, Wyoming, has appealed to Democratic women to help elect a "well-qualified Catholic" to be president of the United States.

She wants a Catholic president to show this is really a republic, not one in name only, she told the National Women's Democratic Club.

"I am a Protestant, unalterably by birth and conviction," she said.

Mrs. Ross asserted she was not even suggesting any particular aspirant; she did not mention the name of Governor Al. Smith of New York, the only Catholic now prominently mentioned in connection with the 1928 campaign. "It is only the principle I would emphasize," she said.

Extremes in Stature

In the Royal College of Surgeons in London there is the skeleton of the "Irish giant," Charles Byrne, who died in 1783. His height was 7 feet 8.4 inches. The skeleton of the Sicilian dwarf, Caroline Crachami, is 18.8 inches. The average height of the European is estimated to be 5 feet 7.5 inches.

THRIFT PAINT DAY

Saturday, May 7th, 1927

SPECIAL SALE AND DEMONSTRATION

By a Practical Paint Man From the Factory

10% Discount On Thrift Day

Thrift Paint is the best Paint Proposition we ever sold or know about, for these reasons:

Thrift Paint is made of Pure White Lead, Zinc, Colors, Dryer and Linseed Oil in required proportions to produce the longest wear, beautiful colors and finish. Thrift Paint comes in a master painter's unreduced form and is ground so fine and mixed so well that it does not settle, and covers more surface. Thrift Paint is made ready for use by mixing one gallon of "Thrift" with one gallon of pure linseed oil, producing two gallons of paint, for first coat or priming more oil is added.

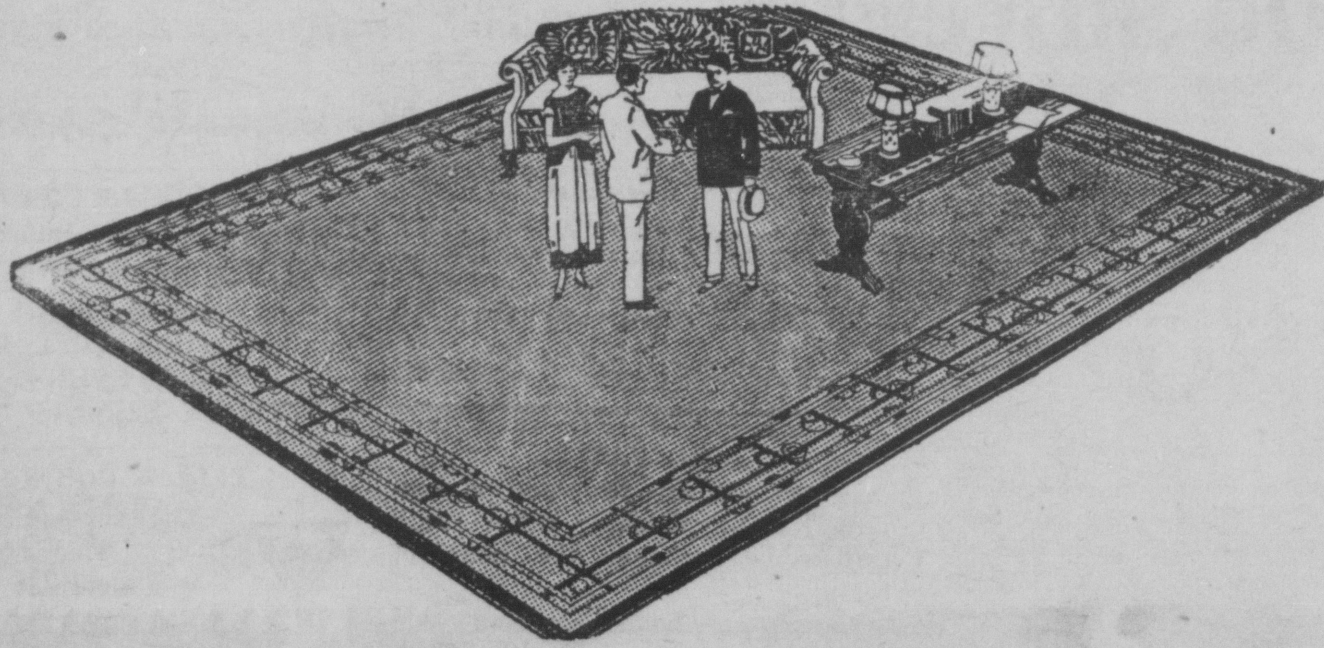

The Johnson Paint Co. make only high grade paints, but conceived this idea of saving Half the Cost of cans, boxing, labels, labor and freight which makes a saving of 75c to $1.00 per gallon as compared with other High Grade Paints.

This outstanding bargain for Thrift Paint is offered one day only in the year, when you can buy Thrift at 10 per cent less by booking your orders and paying a small amount down, and balance when you get the paint anytime during May, June or July.

REMEMBER THRIFT DAY and save 10 per cent, Saturday, May 7, 1927.

AUTOMOBILE FACTORY WENT GLIMMERING

Winn Crouch, of Dayton, representing the Ohio Varnish company, of Cleveland, was in the city Wednesday. Mr. Crouch and his father promoted the first automobile company in this city some twelve years ago. A bunch of some fifteen good fellows put $1,500 into a model machine, which was assembled here and put on the streets. In speed, it exceeded all expectations. H. M. Crites had a race with the critter on South Court street, but it run away from him and the last he saw of the invention it was going down Court; and as far as he knows, it's going yet. It cost him $25 fine for speeding and he quit and gave up the new invention right then and there. The machine found its way back to Detroit Michigan, from where the promoters came. They dropped the dream after a sad experience, and Circleville lost an automobile factory.

PICTURES MAY BE OLD EGYPTIAN ART

According to a report from South Africa, two men searching for cattle in Rhodesia found some queer-looking pictures painted in a shallow cave under a boulder. They sent photographs of the pictures to Dr. S. P. Impey, a South African authority on rock paintings, who pronounced them specimens of Egyptian art. "There are hundreds of crude bushman paintings in caves all over South Africa," declared Doctor Impey, "but these are clearly of a different technique from anything discovered before. There are 11 figures, apparently minstrels, playing stringed instruments unknown to bushmen. In the cave is a large rock where the artist must have rested, using a long brush to reach the roof. The painted figures wear Egyptian costumes, while bushmen's figures are always unclothed."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Had Idea Auntie Might Find Use for Dolls

Billy's aunt, who had been visiting the family, was pecking up to go home. She had once suggested taking little sister's twin dolls with her, as a relief from the state of overpopulation that existed in the nursery, and Billy thought he was but doing his duty when he brought the dolls to the door of her room.

"Aren't you going to take the twins, Aunt Mary?" he inquired, with a triumphant glance at little sister's sorrowful face.

"Not this time," replied Aunt Mary. "I can't find a place to pack them now."

"I should think you'd want to take them anyhow. I should think you'd need 'em. Don't you think you'd better have 'em with you for balt?" solicitously inquired her nephew.—Indianapolis News.

The ceremony was performed at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Schneider officiated. The bride has held the position of stenographer at the Winorr Canning company for the past five and a half years. The young couple will make their home in Columbus.

NOT ALL WISELY LED BY INSTINCT

Animal instinct is not the infallible, divinely inspired affair that is commonly supposed, according to Dr. William E. Ritter. Many times instinct causes an animal to do things in the wrong place or at the wrong time or else to repeat an act unnecessarily, thus wasting energy. Occasionally instinct, misapplied in this way, may do the animal actual harm.

An instance of the senseless repetition due to instinct may be found in the woodpecker that pecks far more holes than he ever fills and fills many more than he ever empties.

The same repetition of activity was demonstrated by a young monkey. It was literally fed up on peanuts at the end of a visiting day, yet when balked in an attempt to reach them put up a good fight, only to discard the nuts the minute they were obtained.—Hygeia Magazine.

WHEN POYDRAS DIKE IS CUT FRIDAY TO SAVE NEW ORLEANS

The Delta Country In Which Some of the Fairest Homes of the Southland Is Located Will Be Made An Inland Sea—It Is Hoped That With the Cutting of This Levee That the Level of Lake Ponchartrain Will Be Lowered.

Colonel Joe Harris, directing work on the Arkansas river levee at South Bend, notified relief workers at Pine Bluff Arkansas at 9:40 Wednesday night that boats had been moved back 600 yards and the South Bend levee was likely to break any minute.

A boil was discovered Wednesday night and warnings were issued for people in the area likely to be flooded to evacuate. The break would inundate a large portion of southeast Arkansas.

From the lowlands of southeastern Louisiana to the highlands of central Arkansas and Tennessee new caravans Wednesday poined the armies of refugees on the march in the face of floods or threats of floods.

Hundreds moved out of St. Bernard and Plaquemine parishes carrying household and other possessions and abandoned homes and farms to be deliberately flooded in an effort to save New Orleans from the wall of water bearing down on it from the upper Mississippi valley.

Grim forces of nature were compelling elements in the movements of those in northern Louisiana, the Mississippi delta and southeastern Arkansas. Many had time to save some possessions; others trudged along empty handed, thankful to escape with their lives.

Army engineers still were doubtful whether the sacrifices to be made by the people of southeastern Louisiana, with the breaking of the levee at Poydras at noon Friday and the loosening of vast volume of flood waters would save the Crescent City.

As flood waters continued to inundate additional towns and farms in southern Arkansas and the Mississippi delta, Red Cross agencies were bending every energy to relieve situations there described in official reports as desperate.

Rising waters from the Arkansas reached more towns and villages Wednesday and increased the flood depths at Arkansas City and other places where large numbers of refugees were gathered. Hundreds who had sought safety in McAbee abandoned that town inundated town and marched to Monticello, where more than 5000 homeless already were being cared for.

Across the Mississippi in the delta section the flood waters pouring thru Stops Landing break above Greenville were gradually pushing out the huge lake in the lower Yazoo valley, flooding half a dozen more towns, making a total of more than a score now partially under water.

The refugee situation in this section presented a most pressing problem. Reports to the Red Cross said at Leland, where there were 6,000 people, help was needed as the town was overrun. Preparations were made to transfer several thousands to the concentration camps at Cleveland.

Reports at Memphis, Tennessee, showed 28,500 refugees concentrated in six towns in the delta, with 8,000 at Greenville, 7,000 at Cleveland, 6,000 at Leland, 2,000 at Lobdell, 2,500 at Deson and 3,000 at Beulah.

Hoping that relief to the city of New Orleans, from the tremendous pressure of the water yet to come down the Mississippi river was assured, New Orleans Wednesday was witnessing the spectacular removal of the citizens of two parishes from homes which have been doomed, that the largest and proudest city of the south might be saved.

Meanwhile every precaution was being taken to prevent any unforeseen action being taken along the levee line stretching thru the New Orleans and up the river.

National guardsmen and police patrolled many miles of levees thruout the day, not only the prevents dynamiting but to sound the alarm should any weakness develop in the levee system.

New Orleans police directed traffic, national guardsmen patrolled the grass-covered levees and warned citizens to evacuate the area and behind all loomed the shadows of a submarine chaser. An airplane hovered overhead, assigned to river patrol duty, and further in the distance a flotilla of four more submarine chasers stood at anchor.

Shoshones 'Bury' Beds of Dead Warriors

Fort Washakie, Wyo.—Modern customs and ancient beliefs have clashed with weird results in the Wind River burial ground near here.

The old idea that the Shoshone Indian should have his personal effects buried with him was workable in the days when he slept on a buffalo robe, but these modern beds present a problem which is generally solved by leaving the bed above ground.

The burial place was established 43 years ago by Rev. John Roberts adjoining his log mission, which still stands. At that time the funeral ceremony consisted of placing the body of the deceased on the back of a pony which was led, followed by a cortege, up long trails to a mountain top. There burial was made in the crevices of a rocky point.

A Shoshone legend says the tribe is descended from a big coyote.

Crookedest Road in the United States

This is known as the crookedest highway in the United States, there being 56 curves or turns to make in a distance of two and one-half miles. The photograph only shows the turns possible to photograph. It goes up a hill 1,200 feet from Mary Hill, Wash., to Goldendale. Some people, especially women, get seasick riding on this road.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires
By Correspondents of the
United States Press
Association.

Conneaut—Bear hunting was in prospect here Thursday as county authorities searched for a big bear which escaped from its owner, Mrs. Gus Pappas, former vaudeville performer. The animal, weighing more than 400 pounds, made a break for Lake Erie, and after swimming off shore returned to the land.

Canton—Ora Slater, investigator of the Don R. Mellett murder will return here Monday to resume his work in connection with the case.

Slater will complete gathering evidence to be presented against Floyd E. Streitenberfer, ousted city detective who goes on trial here May 9 on a first degree murder indictment growing out of the Mellett assassination.

Dayton—Delegates numbering 400 from the entire state were in attendance at a Kiwanis club meeting addressed by Ralph Ammerman, Scranton, Pennsylvania, president of the Kiwanis international. Edward F. Arras, Columbus, past president of the international was present and four past governors; W. G. Hyde, Chillicothe; Robert F. Frey, Ottawa; Warner F. Jackson, Lima and Alfred Miller, Toledo.

Middletown—Myrtle Sherwood, 47 was arrested by state officers and charged with violating the narcotic laws. It is said she forged the name of Dr. T. A. Dickey to a prescription to secure morphine.

Youngstown—Nick Kuffel saved a five year old girl from possible death Wednesday night when he pushed the child out of the path of a street car, but was struck himself. He suffered scalp lacerations and contusions of the chest. The name of the child is unknown.

Zanesville—M. C. Carter, 24 of Wheeling, West Virginia, was in a hospital here today suffering from a bullet wound received in a "bandit trap."

'Get Thee Gone,' Divorce Decree in Turkestan

Tashkent, U. S. S. R.—Turkestan is one of the few remaining Moslem countries where the system of temporary marriages prevails.

As in the new Turkey, a man may divorce his wife by saying in substance: "Get thee gone!" He is then free to try matrimony with another. But the woman, under Islamic law, cannot remarry until 100 days have elapsed after her divorce. If she does so, she is cast out from Mohammedan society as a sinner.

Among the natives of Turkestan the penalty for infidelity in a wife is both severe and humiliating. To show her guilt, her face is blackened and she is placed on a donkey, with her face toward its tail, and led through the bazars of the town.

Soviet to Preserve Chapel of Virgin

Moscow.—Cathedrals, churches, mosques and synagogues of definite historical or architectural interest are to be preserved intact by the Soviet government.

This was indicated by the commissariat of education in refusing the petition of a Moscow borough government seeking the demolition of the famous chapel of the Iberian Virgin, which the devout consider the most sacred spot in Russia. The borough claimed it impeded traffic.

"This precious Sixteenth century structure," said the commissariat, "has every claim to be preserved with the rest of Russia's monuments, because it represents a definite historical, artistic period in the life of the country."

Standing at the entrance to Red Square, the diminutive edifice was made famous by its ikon of the Iberian Virgin, reputed to have miraculous powers, and by the fact that all czars during the last 300 years invariably went there for inspiration and blessing before ascending the throne.

SECRETARY OHIO GRAIN DEALERS DEAD

Joseph W. McCord Dies of Heart Trouble at His Home in Columbus Wednesday.

Joseph W. McCord, 76, of the firm of McCord & Kelley, 80 North High street, Columbus, wholesale grain dealers, and honorary secretary of the Ohio Grain Dealers' association, died at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday at his home, 24 South Monroe avenue. He had been ill since Christmas with heart disease.

He was a resident of Columbus since 1876, coming there from Bainbridge, where he was born September 11, 1850. His ancestors were Scotch-Irish, and were identified with the settlers of Marietta.

He also was a charter member of the Ohio Grain Dealers' association, which was organized at Put-in-Bay, in 1880, and a former president of the association. In 1888 he was elected secretary, which office he held until last June, when he was chosen honorary secretary for life and was presented with a silver cup in appreciation of his services.

Mr. McCord organized the Ohio Grain Dealers' Mutual Fire association, which was incorporated August 6, 1901, and since then he had been its secretary.

Until a year ago he was president of the Grain Dealers' National Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Indianapolis.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday at the residence, Rev. Ralph E. Davis, of Broad street M. E. church will officiate. Burial in Green Lawn cemetery.

The deceased was well known to grain dealers in this city. He was frequently a guest of Col. C. E. Groce, and family.

TRACTION CAR SPILLS CREAM AT DUVALLS

Clyde Leist Driver of Pickaway Dairy Truck Hit at Crossing Thursday.

At 8 o'clock Thursday morning a Chevrolet truck that gathers cream for the Pickaway County Cooperative Cream association owned by Charles Radcliffe and driven by Clyde Leist was struck by a south-bound freight car of the Scioto Valley Traction company, at Duvall.

The truck was almost completely demolished and Mr. Leist was badly cut about the face altho still able to continue his route on another truck.

With the completion of the C. & H. railroad Duvall will have three grade crossings all within a very few rods of space.

French Revive Theory That Names Rule Lives

Paris.—Compelling children to grow up "good" by giving them the right sort of names is an old theory given fresh attention. A lawsuit wherein judgment was obtained against an attorney who neglected to prosecute a suit for plagiarism against a rival, brought out these "good" names:

Albert, Alphonse, Pierre, Gustave, Charles, Paul, Henri and Louis, among many others, for boys. Girls preferably should be christened Jeanne, Agathe, Marie, Berthe, Claire, Anne or Therese.

The names banned are Medard, Joseph, Fernand, Benoit, Sidoine, Suzanne, Zoe and Helena.

Efficient Poisons for Garden Insects

Dusting Has Been Found to Be Practical.

Among the important tasks in caring for the garden is spraying. Complicated and bulky contrivances are not always necessary. Dusting has been found to be practical and a very convenient way of getting rid of cucumber beetles, potato bugs or worms.

The Ohio experiment station was the first institution to make known the fact that a combination of one pound of calcium arsenate and twenty pounds of gypsum not only controlled the cucumber beetle but also made possible increased yield of cucumbers.

The farmers first used sacks for applying the dust and later improved on this method. Buckets with holes punctured through the bottoms over which loose boards are placed so that when the pails are given a slight rotating jerk the dust works its way through the perforations and drops on the plants are often used.

Some farmers have used combinations of calcium arsenate and nicotine sulphate with gypsum. By this means increased efficiency is secured and aphids as well as leaf-eating insects are controlled.

Agricultural gypsum serves as an excellent carrier of various other insect poisons. Combinations with paris green and nicotine sulphate are frequently used with telling effect, and in some cases agricultural gypsum is used alone as a repellent of worms, leaf eaters and plant lice.

Close Scrutiny Needed to Detect Cattle Mange

Acting on statements from the leather trade, which reports serious losses in hides owing to demodectic mange, the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, has requested its inspectors throughout the country to be on the alert in detecting this ailment.

Demodectic or follicular mange, as the same trouble is sometimes called, affects principally cattle, hogs and goats, though sheep and horses are sometimes attacked by the mange mites. One tanner reported that from 4 to 35 per cent of hides from yearling cattle showed visible injury from mange.

Since the external lesions in live animals are often small, obscure, and covered by hair, the symptoms and direct economic losses are not pronounced. This may explain why farmers and even veterinarians may not have become adept in detecting the lesions and recognizing their true nature.

As a means of determining the extent and distribution of this live stock ailment, the bureau of animal industry has instructed its inspectors stationed at public stockyards to furnish monthly reports showing the number and species of animals examined and the degree of infection found. Other persons interested may obtain from the department, on request, directions for detecting demodectic mange in live stock and for obtaining and mailing samples of mites, eggs, and secretions for laboratory examination. The studies are being conducted by the zoological division, bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Protect Trees Against Depredations of Mice

Field mice may seriously damage fruit trees if other food materials become scarce. They girdle the trunks and sometimes the larger roots where they are close to the surface of the ground. Old trees as well as young trees frequently fall victim of their depredations.

One plan used by orchardists to prevent mouse damage is to rake grass and other rubbish away from the tree trunk for a radius of three feet. After this, the ground in this circle is tamped to make it difficult for the mice to burrow close to the trunk.

Sometimes repellent washes are found to be effective. Concentrated lime-sulphur painted on the trunks is used for this purpose. It has been found that a pound of glue dissolved in a gallon of lime-sulphur makes the material stick better and lengthens the repelling effect. The most satisfactory way of dealing with mice is to poison them. Then they are sure to stop depredations.

Purdue Dairymen Offer Feed Guide for Bulls

With his head in a rigid stanchion 365 days in a year, a bull has a splendid chance to think over the mean treatment his owner gives him. Very often he gets the left-over or waste feed. Such rations soon ruin any bull.

Dairymen at Purdue university offer as a feeding guide for bulls in service, the suggestion that they be kept in a vigorous, healthy condition free from excess fat and paunchiness. A good grain mixture consists of 3 parts ground corn, 3 parts ground oats, 2 parts wheat bran and 1 part linseed oil meal. Ground oats are especially good, but cottonseed meal is suspected of causing impotency.

Legume hays at the rate of 10 to 20 pounds a day are recommended. When they are not available, it is necessary to feed more linseed oilmeal. Silage fed in large amounts has a tendency to cause paunchiness, but 10 to 15 pounds daily may be used with other feedings. Water at least twice daily and provide some exercise.

Speed of Birds
The difficulties of timing birds in their wild state make it impossible to give exact information on their speed. The United States biological survey says that the greatest speed attained by birds is attained by the Indian swift, which is known to have traveled as fast as 200 miles an hour. Ordinary small birds do not travel faster than 35 or 40 miles an hour.

PETER'S DENIAL AND REPENTANCE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:53, 54; 66-71; Luke 22:51, 62.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Grieves Jesus and Is Sorry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of Peter's Disloyalty.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Is Denied Today.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Danger of Sudden Temptations.

I. Peter's Downfall (Mark 14:29-71).

This began when he refused to hear about the cross and ended when he, with a foul oath, declared: "I know not the man." When the disciples would no longer hear Christ's message about the cross, they not only ceased to grow in knowledge, but they began to deteriorate in moral discernment and were exposed to the possibility of the shameful denial of their Lord. Steps in Peter's backsliding:

1. Overweening self-confidence (vv. 29-31).

His unwillingness to face the cross alienated him from Jesus and when apprized of the fact that the disciples would all forsake Jesus, Peter declared that Jesus was certainly mistaken, saying: "Although all shall be offended, yet will not I." Our condition is most perilous when we are most sure of our safety.

2. Sleeping at the post of duty (v. 37).

In one short hour the very one who was so confident of his self-sufficiency had fallen asleep instead of watching. The only way to escape from backsliding is to watch.

3. Lack of prayer (v. 38).

The legitimate inference from the Lord's words "watch and pray" is that He had commanded them to pray as well as to watch. The reason there is so little prayer is due to the lack of the sense of need of God's help.

4. Misguided zeal (v. 47).

Peter drew a sword and cut off an ear of a servant of the high priest (John 18:10) when they came to arrest Jesus. He was thus zealous for the Lord. He was trying to make up in outward service his conscious lack of communion.

5. Followed Jesus afar off (v. 54).

Christ's rebuke for taking the sword and the awkward position in which his act had placed him, caused him to follow afar off. He keenly felt Christ's reprimand. Following Jesus afar off got him into trouble.

6. Warned himself at the enemy's fire (v. 67).

This fire was built by those who had come unsympathetically to witness the crucifixion and even to mock in this tragic hour. For Christ's disciples to try to get comfort from the things prepared for the satisfaction of His enemies is sinful. Many professing Christians are living a life of compromise, even attempting to get pleasures out of the things which the enemies of Christ have prepared for themselves.

7. Open denial (vv. 66-71).

Step by step downward Peter went until the words of a servant girl provoked open and blasphemous denial. This even by one who had said: "If I should die with thee I will not deny thee in any wise." Peter's trouble began when he shrank from the cross. It was that shunning which separated him from contact with God. It should be remembered that there can be no backsliding until there be established a position from which to slip. Many of the so-called backsliders have never been born again.

II. The Repentance of Peter (Luke 22:61-62).

1. The Look of Jesus (v. 61).

This was a most wondrous look. It was doubtless filled with pity and pain. Christ knew the trials through which Peter and the other disciples would pass and He prayed for them. This look brought to Peter the full consciousness of his cowardice and disloyalty and his blasphemous words of denial, and yet it displayed His pity and forgiving love.

2. Peter's bitter tears (v. 62).

The look of Jesus brought conviction of sin. It called to mind his boastfulness and cowardice. How awful must have been his condition as he went out that night into the darkness, little suspecting that there would be found a way to get back into communion with his Lord. Doubtless the message from the women as they came from the tomb brought the first good cheer to his heart. Christ said to them: "Go and tell my disciples and Peter." This encouraged him, no doubt, as it indicated Christ's particular consideration and love for him.

ACTRESS HELD

Doctor Also Arrested In Death of Ray Raymond.

Los Angeles, April 26—(UP.)—Dorothy Mackaye, actress, and Dr. Walter Sullivan were under technical arrest today on indictments charging two counts of felony in connection with the death of Miss Mackaye's husband, Ray Raymond, musical comedy star.

The indictments returned by the grand jury late yesterday, charge the two with attempting to conceal a crime and with compounding a felony.

They were specifically charged with an attempt to cover up the alleged "bare knuckle" slaying of Raymond for whose death Paul Kelly, athletic film star is to go on trial May 9 for first degree murder.

Rewards of Friendship

This communicating of a man's self to his friends works two contrary effects, for it redoubteth joys and cutteth grief in halves; for there is no man that imparteth his joys to his friend, but he enjoyeth the more; and no man that imparteth his griefs to his friend, but he grieveth the less.—Bacon.

Cold Causes Given

Causes for colds, attributed to hundreds of different atmospheric and physical disturbances, are chiefly over-fatigue and stale air, according to a bulletin issued by the United States public health service. The majority of colds are "caught" during the months when little outdoor exercise is taken.

"ANTEX" WINDOW SHADES Are Low in Price

But See the Quality for Yourself

You'll probably read advertisements that strongly urged you to buy the product advertised. This advertisement simply tells you what you can get in a window shade for 75 cents in 36 inch width (wider shades in proportion) during the introductory sale--or while our supply lasts. Judge the value for yourself!

If you have never seen "Antex" window shades, there's a surprise in store for you at our special "Antex" introductory sale.

"Antex" shades are the newest window shades on the market. They cannot crack or develop pinholes! The surface is non-porous and does not soil readily.

"Antex" shades have a beautiful crepe finish; they are made like felt, of long, strong fiber; they have no oil, paint, starch, clay or other coating to crack; the colors are commercially fast.

They can be boiled in hot water, or soaked in hot or cold water, and after drying, will stand every test just as though they had never been wet. If wrinkled, no holes appear, and a hot iron and damp cloth will remove the wrinkles; two strong men can play tug-of-war with them; they can be cleaned with a dry rubber sponge, with art gum, or with ordinary paper cleaner.

Try any test yourself. Satisfy yourself--but do so before our limited supply is gone.

BY 3 GENERATIONSFarm Operated by One
Family for 57 Years.Chardon, Ohio.—Three generations
have operated one of the largest maple "sugar bushes" in Ohio, which
this season is yielding the largest out-
put in its history.On November 20, 1860, Isaac Hosford and his son bought 191 acres of land, then a part of the Connecticut
land grant. The farm is just outside
of Chardon, on the Chardon-Painesville road. For 57 consecutive years the farm and its maple grove
have been operated by Isaac Hosford
and his descendants. It passed from father to son. Lynn H. Hosford,
World war veteran, is the present
owner.It has seen all phases of sugar-
making methods from the primitive to
the modern. In 1870, Hosford set 300
wooden buckets and troughs on the ground beneath the maple trees to catch the sap. A gouge was used for tapping. A long hand-made wooden
spout was inserted and from this the
sap dropped into the buckets and troughs.In the Long Ago.The sap was gathered with the aid
of an ox team hitched to a boat sled
on which wooden saddles were arranged to hold two barrels of from thirty to forty gallons each. The saddles prevented the barrels from rolling off.The sap was poured into two iron
kettles holding from forty to sixty
gallons each and bricked in an arch.
When the sap had been boiled down
to sirup the kettles were lifted off the
arch and away from the fire by means
of a pole rested in another pole with
a crotch, the end of which was fastened to the kettle by means of a
heavy log chain.The next method for boiling sap
had as its essential a pan with a flue
heater. The pan had partitions enabling the operator to keep the sap separate from the sirup by means of gate
slides. When the sap became sirup it
was drawn off through a faucet directly over the fire.This plan was replaced in 1886 with an evaporator invented by Henry
Hill, a boyhood chum of Harris Hosford.To house this new evaporator a
large sugar house was built to cen-
tralize the gathering of the sap, as Hosford's "sugar bush" now contained 1,000 trees.Modern Methods Come.About this time wooden buckets
were replaced by new galvanized buckets. The method of tapping also
was changed. A three-eighths inch bit
and a patented metal spile with a shoulder for attaching the bucket
were used.In 1900 a young grove of 1,200 trees
had reached production and a large
and improved evaporator was placed
behind the one purchased fourteen
years before. The trees continued to increase until their number required
3,500 buckets. These 3,500 buckets
yielded 1,000 gallons of sirup in 1919
and again in 1923.The Hosford "sugar bush" is considered one of the largest in Geauga
county, which is noted for its maple
sirup and maple sugar industry. It
contains 1,700 trees and its yearly
sirup output ranges from 400 to 600
gallons. Greater yields are exceptions.Growing Starch Plant*New Hawaiian IndustryHonolulu, T. H.—Pineapples and sugar are the two principal industries
of Hawaii, but a third is rapidly being established to make use of lands too
wet for pineapples and too high for cane. This is a starch, to be made from the edible canna.For fifty years Australia has furnished the market with arrowroot,
which is starch from the root stock
of this plant. The familiar canna of
our gardens has tubers rich in starch,
but the edible species has a very much
larger spread of underground stems
filled with starch that is easily separated from the fiber for market use.Hawaii has used the plant extensively for stock feeding and there seems no reason why it should not be very profitable for commercial use
when established.George V Quits Custom*of Taking Wine OutLondon.—King George has shattered

plots made the throne rather a risky
job.The practice of monarchs drinking
liquors only from the royal cellars
goes back even farther than the time
of Henry V, when rulers feared being
poisoned.The king and Queen Mary have been guests of friends on numerous occasions recently. Among the hosts were Lord and Lady Astor and the duchess
of Roxburgh, formerly Miss May Goe-

Chimpanzees Slow to Pick Up Human Speech
A chimpanzee might be taught to talk with its fingers, as deaf people talk, more easily than it could be taught to imitate sounds of human speech, in the opinion of Dr. Robert M. Yerkes and Margaret S. Child of the Institute of Psychology at Yale university. Several scientists who observed and studied higher apes have tried to teach them to say words, but without much success, these psychologists state in reporting in the Quarterly Review of Biology what is now known about anthropoid behavior. "Perhaps the chief reason for the ape's failure to develop speech is the absence of a tendency to imitate sounds," Doctor Yerkes explains. "Seeing strongly stimulates to imitation, but hearing seems to have no such effect." He believes that the sounds made by apes are not language, but are primarily emotional expressions, which are not learned by imitation.

WATER SUPPLY DISCUSSED AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

City Solicitor Weldon Tells of Conferences With Boards of Health, Columbus Officials And the Water Company—Meeting Was Well Attended And All Are Hopeful That Circleville May Have Pure Water Supply—Committee Appointed By President Jeffries.

The regular meeting of the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening, with President Thomas F. Jeffries presiding, was addressed by C. A. Weldon, city solicitor, relative to the pollution of the Scioto river by the sewage from the city of Columbus.

Last summer this matter was before the chamber of commerce and complaint was made by that body to the state board of health. Complaint was made at the same time to the Franklin county board of health and a meeting was called by that body to which the city officials of this city were invited and the chamber of commerce and quite a number of the doctors. A representative of the city of Columbus was present, also a representative of the state board of health.

Nothing came of that meeting, as about that time copious rains set in and the stench arising from the Scioto river on account of the pollution by the sewage from Columbus, subsided because the river was flushed out by the excessive rainfalls that continued all summer.

The city solicitor referred to this meeting and the information that was obtained was to the effect that the sewage disposal plant in Columbus is capable of handling 27,000,000 gallons daily and that the sewage from the city exceeds 35,000,000, and all the excess is turned directly into the river. He also called attention to the Briggs and O'Shaunessey dams which have been constructed in the Scioto river near Dublin at a cost to Columbus of $2,700,000, and the great amount of water that is impounded by them, being between seven and eight billion gallons, affording a water supply that will last Columbus 250 days.

The effect of impounding the water thus is to completely dry up Scioto river between the Briggs dam and the place where the Olentangy empties into the Scioto, thus wholly diverting the waters from this natural watercourse to the injury of the riparian owners below. Besides the damage brought about by thus diverting the waters, the greater part of the sewage from Columbus is discharged into the Scioto, having the appearance of ink, polluting the water, killing the fish and giving rise to a stench that is disagreeable and nauseating, and thus creating a public nuisance.

Mr. Weldon called attention to the provision of the statutes, providing a penalty for polluting a stream that is a natural watercourse, and the remedies at hand for abating the same. He referred to the case of the City of Mansfield against Balliet, decided by the supreme court, which held that a municipality has no right to discharge its sewage into a natural watercourse without first acquiring from the lower riparian owners the

"Dawn Man's" Relation to the Present Race
The six million-year-old "dawn man," heralded recently by some scientists as "man's first ancestor," cannot rightfully be called such, according to Prof. Kirtley F. Mather, Harvard, geologist.
"Man is an evolved being and so is the monkey," said Doctor Mather. "At some place way back in the dim past, their genealogical trails crossed. The 'dawn man' is a separate offshoot from the common tree, neither man or monkey but related to both."
"The 'dawn man' lived 6,000,000 years ago. The ancestors of man were in existence long before that. True we have no skeletons as yet of older date, but there is evidence of evolution in what we have found. Hence, we logically assume that there was evolution prior to the 'dawn man.'"

Painful Athletic Ill
Charley-horse is a slang phrase used in reference to a severe pain. Athletes seem to be especially susceptible to this condition. Grantland Rice defines it as a sudden bunching of muscles into a hard knot and says that it is one of the most prevalent and most painful of athletic ills.

How Do You Choose Shoes?

Do you select shoes which will be smart and becoming and entirely suited to your needs?—or simply because they happen to be the newest fad?
In a season when so many styles are brought forth, it is very wise to choose your shoes for definite purposes, or to wear with certain costumes. For, after all, being "well dressed" depends upon your own attractiveness. And clothes, or shoes chosen in that way, will always give greater pleasure.

It's here at last—the real "inside story," of Broadway night life! Gilda Gray's new Paramount picture, "Cabaret" which arrived at the Met theater yesterday is IT! "Cabaret" towers above everything of the sort which has preceded it. If authenticity is sought,—if you want to know exactly what the clubs look like, who the entertainers are, what dances are being danced or what clothes are being worn,—"Cabaret" should be seen. And if there is one woman in America who known in night clubs, Gilda Gray is she. Her life story is too well known to need recounting here, but it should be noted that Gilda first won applause as a cabaret entertainer. Because of this, "Cabaret" is real!
Gloria Trask found fame awaiting her in the Club Costigan and she also found love. Detective Tom Westcott was more than ordinarily interested in her and so was Sam Roberts. While the latter was more amfubertal Gloria disliked him because of the grip he exerted on her brother, Andy. One night she determined to find out exactly what kind of an axe he held over the boy's head. But—Andy entered and threw Roberts to the floor.

He fired a gun, Andy did the same and the gang leader was dead! The shots weren't heard because of a jazz band in the next room. Gloria danced her wounded brother thru the crowded dance floor and out—but why go further?
"Cabaret," was written by a master melodramatist, Owen Davis. Chester Conklin is cofeatured with Tom Moore. Robert G. Vignola directed.

Oakland Finds June Bad Month for Cats
Oakland, Calif. — Down-and-outers of the feline world in California offer themselves to the world of hard knocks—and no food—in greater numbers during June than in any other month in the year, if figures compiled by the Animal Shelter league here are any indication. Cats receiving care that month totaled 488.
Since the inception of the organization in August, 1925, no less than 2,883 cats have obtained shelter at the organization. Homes were found for some of these—others are listed under the suggestive caption: Cats Dispatched. These numbers 2,778.

Cannibal Butterflies

Butterflies that eat plant lice and mealy bugs during the larval stage, instead of the usual vegetarian diet, have been discovered in the Orient and New England. Known as hair-streaks, they even carry their cannibal habits to the point of devouring their own species during the helpless state of transition from larva into the pupa.

EIGHTY-FIRST

Annual Meeting of Ohio State Medical Association To Be Held In Columbus May 10-12.

Columbus, April 27.—Physicians and surgeons from all parts of Ohio and from neighboring states will gather in Columbus, May 10, 11 and 12, for the eighty-first annual meeting of the Ohio State Medical Association which is to be held for the first time in the last half-century at the Neil House—the place where the Association was founded in May, 1846.

Over one hundred Ohio physicians and eight out-of-state physicians are to take part in the scientific assembly, where the latest advances in scientific medicine for the cure of disease, alleviation of suffering and protection of public health are to be discussed. This assembly is divided into six general sections—Medicine; surgery; eye, ear, nose and throat; obstetrics and pediatrics; nervous and mental diseases; and public health and industrial medicine.

In addition to the scientific program, there will be business meetings of the House of Delegates, the general sessions, election of officers, seventh annual golf tournament, clinics, fraternity and college reunions and numerous other social activities.

Dr. L. G. Bowers, Dayton, retires as president of the Association at this meeting. Dr. L. L. Bigelow, Columbus, president-elect, succeeds Dr. Bowers. Dr. Bigelow's successor will be elected at the meeting.

Pickaway county will be well represented at the Columbus meeting.

Dr. F. E. Ginder, of Darbyville, is president of the Pickaway County Medical Society and Dr. Lloyd Jones, of Circleville, is secretary.

NORDI ADMITSHE SHOT SOLDIER

Columbus April 27.—Cecil Nordi, 31, proprietor of a restaurant at 873 north Nineteenth street, confessed late Tuesday that he had fired the shot which killed Private Joseph Karpinsky, 33, quartermaster corps, Fort Hayes, during a disturbance at his restaurant Monday night. He is being held on a first degree murder charge.

His confession to Police Prosecutor Hensel followed a conference with his attorney, John F. Siedel. He claims self-defense. The confession corroborated the story told by Mrs. Mildred Horn, 27, employee of the restaurant.

Mrs. Horn had at first said she shot Karpinsky, but changed her story Tuesday. She will be held by police as a material witness as will her sister-in-law, Mrs. Goldie Horn, 33, both living in rooms above the restaurant.

Nordi said that Karpinsky came in the restaurant, started a disturbance and threw a glass tray at him, which hit the back-bar and shattered. He then started behind the counter. Nordi says he warned him not to come behind the counter and pulled a revolver from a drawer. He shot when Karpinsky refused to heed his warning, Nordi said.

Mrs. Goldie Horn heard the noise of the smashed tray and the shot, and was the first to enter the restaurant after the tragedy.

URGES PROOFOF TOLERATION

Election of Catholic Is Favored By Nellie Ross.

Washington, April 27.—(U.P.)—Denouncing intolerance as the greatest sin of the age, former Governor Nellie Taylor Ross, Wyoming, has appealed to Democratic women to help elect a "well-qualified Catholic" to be president of the United States.

She wants a Catholic president to show this is really a republic, not one in name only, she told the National Women's Democratic Club.

"I am a Protestant, unalterably by birth and conviction," she said.

Mrs. Ross asserted she was not even suggesting any particular aspirant; she did not mention the name of Governor Al. Smith of New York, the only Catholic now prominently mentioned in connection with the 1928 campaign. "It is only the principle I would emphasize," she said.

Extremes in Stature

In the Royal College of Surgeons in London there is the skeleton of the "Irish giant," Charles Byrne, who died in 1783. His height was 7 feet 8.4 inches. The skeleton of the Sicilian dwarf, Caroline Crachami, is 18.8 inches. The average height of the European is estimated to be 5 feet 7.5 inches.

THRIFT PAINT DAY

Saturday, May 7th, 1927

SPECIAL SALE AND DEMONSTRATION

By a Practical Paint Man From the Factory

10% Discount On Thrift Day

Thrift Paint is the best Paint Proposition we ever sold or know about, for these reasons:

Thrift Paint is made of Pure White Lead, Zinc, Colors, Dryer and Linseed Oil in required proportions to produce the longest wear, beautiful colors and finish. Thrift Paint comes in a master painter's unreduced form and is ground so fine and mixed so well that it does not settle, and covers more surface. Thrift Paint is made ready for use by mixing one gallon of "Thrift" with one gallon of pure linseed oil, producing two gallons of paint, for first coat or priming more oil is added.

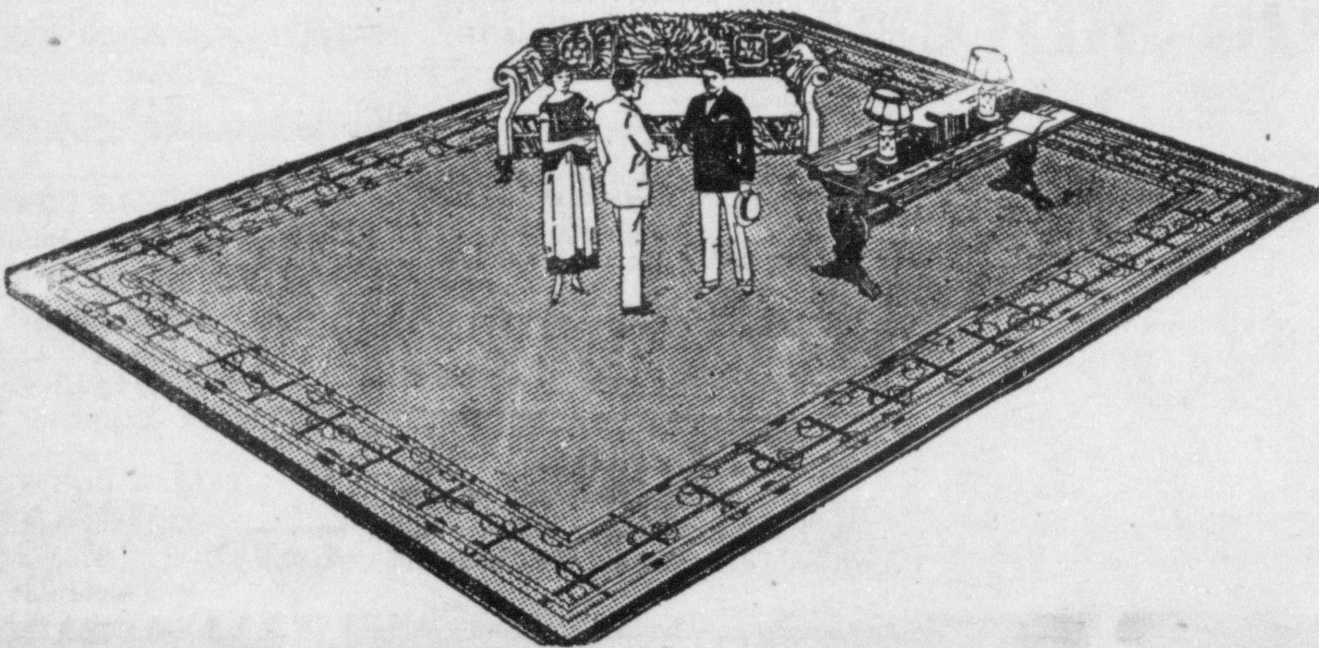

The Johnson Paint Co. make only high grade paints, but conceived this idea of saving Half the Cost of cans, boxing, labels, labor and freight which makes a saving of 75c to $1.00 per gallon as compared with other High Grade Paints.

This outstanding bargain for Thrift Paint is offered one day only in the year, when you can buy Thrift at 10 per cent less by booking your orders and paying a small amount down, and balance when you get the paint anytime during May, June or July.

REMEMBER THRIFT DAY and save 10 per cent, Saturday, May 7, 1927.

For Longer Better Motor Service
Unless your motor has an oil purifier, crankcase should be drained every 500 miles (trucks every 300). Refill with the grade of Polarine specified for your car.

Consult the Polarine Chart

The Polarine Chart of Recommendations eliminates lubrication guess-work and offers the motorist the correct answer to his question, "which oil is right for my car?"

The Polarine Chart specifies with scientific accuracy the grade of Polarine Oils and Greases that will properly lubricate each part of every make of automobile and motor truck. It is a trustworthy guide to longer and more trouble-free motor service.

The five grades of Polarine Motor Oil provide a correct lubricant for every type of motor. Polarine Transmission Lubricants and Greases are refined to meet the needs of all transmission and chassis units.

This full line of high-quality oils and greases, with the Polarine Chart, comprises complete lubrication service. And the fact that you can consult the Polarine Chart and get the recommended grade of Polarine at 600 Standard Service Stations and at dealers' stores and garages throughout Ohio makes this service even more complete.

AUTOMOBILE FACTORY WENT GLIMMERING

Winn Crouch, of Dayton, representing the Ohio Varnish company, of Cleveland, was in the city Wednesday. Mr. Crouch and his father promoted the first automobile company in this city some twelve years ago. A bunch of some fifteen good fellows put $1,500 into a model machine, which was assembled here and put on the streets. In speed, it exceeded all expectations. H. M. Crites had a race with the critter on South Court street, but it ran away from him and the last he saw of the invention it was going down Court; and as far as he knows, it's going yet. It cost him $25 fine for speeding and he quit and gave up the new invention right then and there. The machine found its way back to Detroit Michigan, from where the promoters came. They dropped the dream after a sad experience, and Circleville lost an automobile factory.

PICTURES MAY BE OLD EGYPTIAN ART

According to a report from South Africa, two men searching for cattle in Rhodesia found some queer-looking pictures painted in a shallow cave under a boulder. They sent photographs of the pictures to Dr. S. P. Impey, a South African authority on rock paintings, who pronounced them specimens of Egyptian art. "There are hundreds of crude bushman paintings in caves all over South Africa," declared Doctor Impey, "but these are clearly of a different technique from anything discovered before. There are 11 figures, apparently minstrels, playing stringed instruments unknown to bushmen. In the cave is a large rock where the artist must have rested, using a long brush to reach the roof. The painted figures wear Egyptian costumes, while bushmen's figures are always unclothed."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Had Idea Auntie Might Find Use for Dolls

Billy's aunt, who had been visiting the family, was packing up to go home. She had once suggested taking little sister's twin dolls with her, as a relief from the state of overpopulation that existed in the nursery, and Billy thought he was but doing his duty when he brought the dolls to the door of her room.

"Aren't you going to take the twins, Aunt Mary?" he inquired, with a triumphant glance at little sister's sorrowful face.

"Not this time," replied Aunt Mary. "I can't find a place to pack them now."

"I should think you'd want to take them anyhow. I should think you'd need 'em. Don't you think you'd better have 'em with you for bait?" solicitously inquired her nephew.—Indianapolis News.

The young couple will make their home in Columbus.

NOT ALL WISELY LED BY INSTINCT

Animal instinct is not the infallible, divinely inspired affair that is commonly supposed, according to Dr. William E. Ritter. Many times instinct causes an animal to do things in the wrong place or at the wrong time or else to repeat an act unnecessarily, thus wasting energy. Occasionally instinct, misapplied in this way, may do the animal actual harm.

An instance of the senseless repetition due to instinct may be found in the woodpecker that pecks far more holes than he ever fills and fills many more than he ever empties.

The same repetition of activity was demonstrated by a young monkey. It was literally fed up on peanuts at the end of a visiting day, yet when balked in an attempt to reach them put up a good fight, only to discard the nuts the minute they were obtained.—Hygeia Magazine.

BY 3 GENERATIONSFarm Operated by One
Family for 57 Years.Chardon, Ohio.—Three generations
have operated one of the largest maple "sugar bushes" in Ohio, which
this season is yielding the largest out-
put in its history.On November 20, 1869, Isaac Hosford and his son bought 191 acres of land, then a part of the Connecticut
land grant. The farm is just outside
of Chardon, on the Chardon-Painesville road. For 57 consecutive years the farm and its maple grove
have been operated by Isaac Hosford
and his descendants. It passed from father to son. Lynn H. Hosford,
World war veteran, is the present
owner.It has seen all phases of sugar-
making methods from the primitive to
the modern. In 1870, Hosford set 300
wooden buckets and troughs on the ground beneath the maple trees to catch the sap. A gouge was used for tapping. A long hand-made wooden
spout was inserted and from this the
sap dropped into the buckets and troughs.In the Long Ago.The sap was gathered with the aid
of an ox team hitched to a boat sled
on which wooden saddles were arranged to hold two barrels of from thirty to forty gallons each. The saddles prevented the barrels from rolling off.The sap was poured into two iron
kettles holding from forty to sixty
gallons each and bricked in an arch.
When the sap had been boiled down
to sirup the kettles were lifted off the
arch and away from the fire by means
of a pole rested in another pole with
a crotch, the end of which was fastened to the kettle by means of a
heavy log chain.The next method for boiling sap
had as its essential a pan with a flue heater. The pan had partitions enabling the operator to keep the sap separate from the sirup by means of gate
slides. When the sap became sirup it
was drawn off through a faucet directly over the fire.This plan was replaced in 1886 with an evaporator invented by Henry
Hill, a boyhood chum of Harris Hos-
ford.To house this new evaporator a
large sugar house was built to cen-
tralize the gathering of the sap, as Hosford's "sugar bush" now contained 1,000 trees.Modern Methods Come.About this time wooden buckets
were replaced by new galvanized buckets. The method of tapping also
was changed. A three-eighths inch bit
and a patented metal spile with a
shoulder for attaching the bucket
were used.In 1900 a young grove of 1,200 trees
had reached production and a large
and improved evaporator was placed
behind the one purchased fourteen
years before. The trees continued to increase until their number required
3,500 buckets. These 3,500 buckets
yielded 1,000 gallons of sirup in 1919
and again in 1923.The Hosford "sugar bush" is considered one of the largest in Geauga
county, which is noted for its maple
sirup and maple sugar industry. It
contains 1,700 trees and its yearly
sirup output ranges from 400 to 600
gallons. Greater yields are exceptions.Growing Starch Plant New Hawaiian IndustryHonolulu, T. H.—Pineapples and
sugar are the two principal industries
of Hawaii, but a third is rapidly being established to make use of lands too
wet for pineapples and too high for cane. This is a starch, to be made from the edible canna.For fifty years Australia has furnished the market with arrowroot,
which is starch from the root stock
of this plant. The familiar canna of
our gardens has tubers rich in starch,
but the edible species has a very much
larger spread of underground stems
filled with starch that is easily separated from the fiber for market use.Hawaii has used the plant extensively for stock feeding and there seems no reason why it should not be very profitable for commercial use
when established.George V Quits Custom of Taking Wine OutLondon.—King George has shattered another ancient precedent by abolishing the custom of taking his own wines when dining out. He decided to leave his wine stewards at Bucking-many of his predecessors would never have dreamed of in the days when plots made the throne rather a risky

job.The practice of monarchs drinking
liquors only from the royal cellars
goes back even farther than the time
of Henry V, when rulers feared being
poisoned.The king and Queen Mary have been
guests of friends on numerous occasions recently. Among the hosts were Lord and Lady Astor and the duchess
of Roxburgh, formerly Miss May Goe-
let of New York.So Have WeWheeling, Va.—Marvin Malone,

Chimpanzees Slow to Pick Up Human Speech
A chimpanzee might be taught to talk with its fingers, as deaf people talk, more easily than it could be taught to imitate sounds of human speech, in the opinion of Dr. Robert M. Yerkes and Margaret S. Child of the Institute of Psychology at Yale university. Several scientists who observed and studied higher apes have tried to teach them to say words, but without much success, these psychologists state in reporting in the Quarterly Review of Biology what is now known about anthropoid behavior. "Perhaps the chief reason for the ape's failure to develop speech is the absence of a tendency to imitate sounds," Doctor Yerkes explains. "Seeing strongly stimulates to imitation, but hearing seems to have no such effect." He believes that the sounds made by apes are not language, but are primarily emotional expressions, which are not learned by imitation.

WATER SUPPLY DISCUSSED AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

City Solicitor Weldon Tells of Conferences With Boards of Health, Columbus Officials And the Water Company—Meeting Was Well Attended And All Are Hopeful That Circleville May Have Pure Water Supply—Committee Appointed By President Jeffries.

The regular meeting of the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening, with President Thomas F. Jeffries presiding, was addressed by C. A. Weldon, city solicitor, relative to the pollution of the Scioto river by the sewage from the city of Columbus.

Last summer this matter was before the chamber of commerce and complaint was made by that body to the state board of health. Complaint was made at the same time to the Franklin county board of health and a meeting was called by that body to which the city officials of this city were invited and the chamber of commerce and quite a number of the doctors. A representative of the city of Columbus was present, also a representative of the state board of health.

Nothing came of that meeting, as about that time copious rains set in and the stench arising from the Scioto river on account of the pollution by the sewage from Columbus, subsided because the river was flushed out by the excessive rainfalls that continued all summer.

The city solicitor referred to this meeting and the information that was obtained was to the effect that the sewage disposal plant in Columbus is capable of handling 27,000,000 gallons daily and that the sewage from the city exceeds 35,000,000, and all the excess is turned directly into the river. He also called attention to the Briggs and O'Shaunessey dams which have been constructed in the Scioto river near Dublin at a cost to Columbus of $2,700,000, and the great amount of water that is impounded by them, being between seven and eight billion gallons, affording a water supply that will last Columbus 250 days.

The effect of impounding the water thus is to completely dry up Scioto river between the Briggs dam and the place where the Olentangy empties into the Scioto, thus wholly diverting the waters from this natural watercourse to the injury of the riparian owners below. Besides the damage brought about by thus diverting the waters, the greater part of the sewage from Columbus is discharged into the Scioto, having the appearance of ink, polluting the water, killing the fish and giving rise to a stench that is disagreeable and nauseating, and thus creating a public nuisance.

Mr. Weldon called attention to the provision of the statutes, providing a penalty for polluting a stream that is a natural watercourse, and the remedies at hand for abating the same. He referred to the case of the City of Mansfield against Balliett, decided by the supreme court, which held that a municipality has no right to discharge its sewage into a natural watercourse without first acquiring from the lower riparian owners the right to do so and compensating them for the damages sustained.

He also referred to the almost supreme powers given to the state board of health, whereby, upon the complaint that a city is discharging its sewage into a watercourse, thus polluting it and creating a nuisance, and after a hearing and finding that such is the fact, the board may order the municipality to install a sewage plant, and failure to comply with its orders subjects the officials to a fine. This law has been held constitutional in the case of the City of Cleveland against the State Board of Health.

At the present time the city of Columbus has a sanitary engineer employed, preparing plans and specifications for a sewage disposal plant for the city and the state board of health has indicated that it will make an order requiring Columbus to install the plant. This will take some time. The chamber of commerce was also told that a sewage disposal plant has been installed at the farm at Orient and is in complete working order and the sewage from that point is no longer a menace to our water supply.

Mr. Weldon said that Mr. Waring, representing the state board of health, and Mr. Hoover, chemist in charge of the water purification plant at Columbus, had been here Tuesday, had made an examination of the water plant and found everything satisfactory, that the water works had complied with the orders of the state board of health and installed a chlorine device for treating the water supply. Eight samples of the water were taken Tuesday for analysis and a report on the same is expected by Thursday.

At the conclusion of Mr. Weldon's talk, a general discussion followed. Dr. Howard Jones stated that the state board of health and the city of Columbus had promised annually for years to cease polluting the Scioto river and that the promises were just as repeatedly broken, and that we are no further advanced than we were some years ago in this respect, all the time the Scioto river becoming more polluted by the sewage from the city of Columbus.

A resolution was proposed by R. L. Brehmer, seconded by T. O. Gilliland and passed by the chamber of commerce directing that a committee be appointed to cooperate with the city solicitor, the prosecuting attorney, the county commissioners and the various county boards, together with the city of Circleville board of health, to take action to compel the city of Columbus to discontinue discharging sewage into the Scioto river, to cease polluting that stream on account of the public nuisance it has created. This resolution was enthusiastically adopted and President Jeffries announced that he would appoint the committee within the next few days, after which the meeting adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS
It's here at last—the real "inside story," of Broadway night life! Gilda Gray's new Paramount picture, "Cabaret" which arrived at the Met theater yesterday is IT! "Cabaret" towers above everything of the sort which has preceded it. If authenticity is sought,—if you want to know exactly what the clubs look like, who the entertainers are, what dances are being danced or what clothes are being worn,—"Cabaret" should be seen. And if there is one woman in America who known in night clubs, Gilda Gray is she. Her life story is too well known to need recounting here, but it should be noted that Gilda first won applause as a cabaret entertainer. Because of this, "Cabaret" is real!

Gloria Trask found fame awaiting her in the Club Costigan and she also found love. Detective Tom Westcott was more than ordinarily interested in her and so was Sam Roberts. While the latter was more affluent Gloria disliked him because of the grip he exerted on her brother, Andy. One night she determined to find out exactly what kind of an axe he held over the boy's head. But—Andy entered and threw Roberts to the floor.

He fired a gun, Andy did the same and the gang leader was dead! The shots weren't heard because of a jazz band in the next room. Gloria danced her wounded brother thru the crowded dance floor and out—but why go further?

"Cabaret," was written by a master melodramatist, Owen Davis. Chester Conklin is cofeatured with Tom Moore. Robert G. Vignola directed.

Oakland Finds June Bad Month for Cats

Oakland, Calif. — Down-and-outers of the feline world in California offer themselves to the world of hard knocks—and no food—in greater numbers during June than in any other month in the year, if figures compiled by the Animal Shelter league here are any indication. Cats receiving care that month totaled 488.

Since the inception of the organization in August, 1925, no less than 2,883 cats have obtained shelter at the organization. Homes were found for some of these—others are listed under the suggestive caption: Cats Dispatcher. These numbered 2,778.

"Dawn Man's" Relation to the Present Race

The six million-year-old "dawn man," heralded recently by some scientists as "man's first ancestor," cannot rightfully be called such, according to Prof. Kirtley F. Mather, Harvard, geologist.

"Man is an evolved being and so is the monkey," said Doctor Mather. "At some place way back in the dim past, their genealogical trails crossed. The 'dawn man' is a separate offshoot from the common tree, neither man or monkey but related to both."

"The 'dawn man' lived 6,000,000 years ago. The ancestors of man were in existence long before that. True we have no skeletons as yet of older date, but there is evidence of evolution in what we have found. Hence, we logically assume that there was evolution prior to the 'dawn man.'"

Painful Athletic Ill

Charley-horse is a slang phrase used in reference to a severe pain. Athletes seem to be especially susceptible to this condition. Grantland Rice defines it as a sudden bunching of muscles into a hard knot and says that it is one of the most prevalent and most painful of athletic ills.

How Do You Choose Shoes?

Do you select shoes which will be smart and becoming and entirely suited to your needs?—or simply because they happen to be the newest fad?

In a season when so many styles are brought forth, it is very wise to choose your shoes for definite purposes, or to wear with certain costumes. For, after all, being "well dressed" depends upon your own attractiveness. And clothes, or shoes chosen in that way, will always give greater pleasure.

AUTOMOBILE FACTORY WENT GLIMMERING

Winn Crouch, of Dayton, representing the Ohio Varnish company, of Cleveland, was in the city Wednesday. Mr. Crouch and his father promoted the first automobile company in this city some twelve years ago. A bunch of some fifteen good fellows put $1,500 into a model machine, which was assembled here and put on the streets. In speed, it exceeded all expectations. H. M. Crites had a race with the critter on South Court street, but it run away from him and the last he saw of the invention it was going down Court; and as far as he knows, it's going yet. It cost him $25 fine for speeding and he quit and gave up the new invention right then and there. The machine found its way back to Detroit Michigan, from where the promoters came. They dropped the dream after a sad experience, and Circleville lost an automobile factory.

PICTURES MAY BE OLD EGYPTIAN ART

According to a report from South Africa, two men searching for cattle in Rhodesia found some queer-looking pictures painted in a shallow cave under a boulder. They sent photographs of the pictures to Dr. S. P. Impey, a South African authority on rock paintings, who pronounced them specimens of Egyptian art. "There are hundreds of crude bushman paintings in caves all over South Africa," declared Doctor Impey, "but these are clearly of a different technique from anything discovered before. There are 11 figures, apparently minstrels, playing stringed instruments unknown to bushmen. In the cave is a large rock where the artist must have rested, using a long brush to reach the roof. The painted figures wear Egyptian costumes, while bushmen's figures are always unclothed."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Had Idea Auntie Might Find Use for Dolls

Billy's aunt, who had been visiting the family, was packing up to go home. She had once suggested taking little sister's twin dolls with her, as a relief from the state of overpopulation that existed in the nursery, and Billy thought he was but doing his duty when he brought the dolls to the door of her room.

"Aren't you going to take the twins, Aunt Mary?" he inquired, with a triumphant glance at little sister's sorrowful face.

"Not this time," replied Aunt Mary. "I can't find a place to pack them now."

"I should think you'd want to take them anyhow. I should think you'd need 'em. Don't you think you'd better have 'em with you for bait?" solicitously inquired her nephew.—Indianapolis News.

The young couple will make their home in Columbus.

NOT ALL WISELY LED BY INSTINCT

Animal instinct is not the infallible, divinely inspired affair that is commonly supposed, according to Dr. William E. Ritter. Many times instinct causes an animal to do things in the wrong place or at the wrong time or else to repeat an act unnecessarily, thus wasting energy. Occasionally instinct, misapplied in this way, may do the animal actual harm.

An instance of the senseless repetition due to instinct may be found in the woodpecker that pecks far more holes than he ever fills and fills many more than he ever empties.

The same repetition of activity was demonstrated by a young monkey. It was literally fed up on peanuts at the end of a visiting day, yet when balked in an attempt to reach them put up a good fight, only to discard the nuts the minute they were obtained.—Hygeia Magazine.
